PREFACE

Frederick Law Olmsted, Sr. is widely recognized as America's premier landscape architect. His accomplishments in the fields of park design, conservation, town planning, and landscape architecture have national and international significance. Olmsted's legacy includes city and state parks, school and college campuses, institutional grounds, private estates, suburban communities, zoos, and arboretums. Olmsted was also a passionate advocate for the preservation of America's natural resources and the creation of state and national parks.

After work on such landmarks as Central Park and Prospect Park in New York, Olmsted returned to his native New England to plan the Boston Park System. In 1883 at his home in Brookline, Massachusetts, he established the first full-scale professional office dedicated to landscape architecture in the United States. Following his retirement in 1895, the firm assumed the name Olmsted Brothers. John Charles Olmsted became the senior partner of the firm, and after his death in 1920, was succeeded by Frederick Law Olmsted, Jr. The firm rapidly expanded under the leadership of the brothers. Over the years, to accommodate this growth, a rambling complex of offices was added to the family residence. Olmsted Jr. was the last member of the family to be associated with the business. He retired in 1950, but the firm retained the name "Olmsted Brothers" until 1961 when it became "Olmsted Associates." By the late 1970s, the business activity of the firm had declined appreciably. In 1980, the National Park Service acquired the site and its contents and began restoring the buildings and grounds to their appearance in the early 1930s, the period of the firm's greatest success.

This document, the Finding Aid for the Aiglon Aerial Photograph Collection 1915-1933 (bulk dates: 1924-1929), primarily describes a photographic reference collection assembled by the Olmsted Brothers firm at their office in Brookline, MA.

This document represents many hours of work recording details about the items herein described. The reader, however, should expect a degree of human error and, consequently, should rely on personal observation of the actual items to determine file contents.

COPYRIGHT AND PRIVACY RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials. The Privacy Act of 1974 (5 United States Code 552a) governs the use of materials that document private individuals, groups and corporations.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a reproduction if the document does not infringe the privacy rights of an individual, group or corporation. These specified conditions of authorized use include:

- non-commercial and non-profit study, scholarship, research or teaching
- criticism or commentary
- as an NPS preservation or security copy for research use
- as a research copy for deposit in another institution

If the researcher later uses a copy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," the researcher is personally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement and agrees to indemnify the NPS from any legal action as a result of the error. Permission to obtain a photographic, xerographic, digital or other copy of a document doesn't indicate permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, sell, distribute or prepare derivative works from the document without permission from the copyright holder and from any private individual, group or corporation shown or otherwise recorded.

Permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, prepare derivative works from, sell or otherwise distribute the item must be obtained separately in writing from the holder of the original copyright (or if the creator is dead from his/her heirs) as well as from any individual(s), groups or corporations whose name, image, recorded words or private information (e.g. employment information) may be reproduced in the source material. The holder of the original copyright isn't necessarily the National Park Service. The National Park Service is not legally liable for copyright, privacy or publicity infringement when materials are wrongfully used after being provided to researchers for "fair use."

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if fulfillment of the order is judged in violation of copyright or federal or state privacy or publicity law. This institution also places restrictions on the use of cameras, photocopiers and scanners in the research room.

INTRODUCTION

The collection known as the Aiglon Aerial Photograph Collection is a sub-series of the Photographic Materials series within the Landscape Design Records sub-collection of the Frederick Law Olmsted, Sr., Olmsted Brothers and Olmsted Associates Records, 1847-1980 collection. The Aiglon Aerial Photograph Collection consists primarily of aerial photographs of private estates, largely in four sizes (3x5", 4x6", 8x10" and 11x14") with some slight variation throughout. Other photographic materials are included and, while apparently not associated with the Aiglon photos, have not been separated as a discrete subseries due to their physical proximity and are described herein as a portion of the whole collection.

The Aiglon photographs were purchased by the Olmsted Brothers Firm in the 1920s, according to financial records of the firm<sup>1</sup> and handwritten notes in correspondence files held at the Library of Congress. The subject matters of the photographs are – exclusively – private estates, largely from Long Island's "Gold Coast", a few from Newport, Rhode Island, a number from the greater Boston area, one from Maine and one from Connecticut. It should be noted that not all of the subjects are Olmsted clients; when an Olmsted firm connection could be associated, a job number has been attached in this document.

The Aiglon Aerial Photograph Collection also contains a relatively small number of black & white photographs taken from ground level of other properties: Beacon Hill House, the Arthur Curtiss James estate in Newport, Rhode Island (photographs ca.1915); the J.E. Aldred estate in Glen Cove, Long Island, New York (date unknown); Sleepy Hollow Cemetery in Tarrytown, NY; the G.G. Whitney estate in Milton, MA and Highwood, the W.B. Walker estate in Manchester, MA (all dates unknown). Lastly, small pockets of seemingly unrelated materials are also contained in the collection: a series of postcards of Northern California, some 8"x10" negatives of a California park, and non-job related photographs from FLO Jr.

Documentation in the site's processing files describes the condition and order in which the photographs were originally found, as well as early efforts at processing.<sup>2</sup> The collection was initially found stored in the mezzanine of the upper vault in a metal filing cabinet drawer labeled "Aiglon Prints". The photos were removed from the vault by the site's curatorial staff in the fall of 1983 when the vault was cleared out for renovation and re-ordered according to best practices at the time. At some point in the collection's recent history (around 1999), the photographs were stored with the firm's European Photograph collection (probably due to approximate size similarities and proximities within the vault) and became known as the “non-EPC” (“non-European photo collection”) photos.

<sup>1</sup> Amounts of checks written to Aiglon Aerial Photos, 2309 Broadway, NY: 5/5/24, $126.00; 4/12/26, $10.00; 11/27/26, $113.40; 3/19/28, $29.00; 3/28/28, $18.50; 5/28/28, $1.50; "Aiglon Aerial Photos", Check registry index card file, Bank Records, Box 35, Frederick Law Olmsted National Historic Site.

<sup>2</sup> Much of the following information comes from handwritten notes in the folder "Aiglon Prints – Description, Finding Aid and Notes", author unknown, ca. 1984. Two other folders accompany this one, "Inventory of Aiglon prints...listed by envelope" and "Inventory of Aiglon prints...separate entry for each photo". All three folders are found in the "Processing Notes" collection of resource management records.

This collection was end-processed in 2008-2009. Photographs were put into mylar envelopes, acid-free folders and document boxes and cataloged into ANCS+ at the item level. While item-level cataloging is not always recommended or standard, the collection’s importance and representation warranted it. The order in which the collection was most recently found was maintained and the envelope naming conventions used at the time were respected, which is reflected in the folder names of the collection. Item names typically come from the verso labels of photographs; inferred names have been given bracketed titles. Photographs depicting Olmsted projects were cataloged into ANCS+ with their project number and are searchable by Olmsted job number in the Olmsted Research Guide Online (ORGO) database.<sup>3</sup>

Appendices were created listing Olmsted-related projects with photographs in this collection, and listing the collection in numerical order based on photograph number. This listing shows that the photographs are roughly geographically ordered, as well. Additionally, representative images of the aerial photographs were scanned and appended, listed in order by photograph number.

This finding aid is divided into five sections:

- Part 1: Collection Description:
  - a scope and content note (or brief synopsis of the collection)
  - an outline showing the organization of the collection
  - descriptions of the series that comprises the collection
- Part 2: Historical Note (brief history of the Olmsted firms, the field of aerial photography, as well as a brief organizational history of Aiglon Aerial Photographs company)

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

Finding Aid for the Aiglon Aerial Photograph Collection, 1915 - 1933; (Bulk Dates: 1924-1929)

Accession number: FRLA-1

Catalog number: FRLA 15781

Quantity: 2 linear feet

Storage: 3 Containers: 2 letter-size document boxes, 1 flat storage box

Location: Frederick Law Olmsted National Historic Site, 99 Warren Street, Brookline, Massachusetts 02445-5998, (617) 566-1689.

Description: The Aiglon Aerial Photograph Collection consists primarily of photographs of estates, mostly in New England, Rhode Island and New York's Long Island. These photos might have served as a reference collection for employees of the Olmsted Brothers Firm (1898-1961) and the Olmsted Associates Firm (1961-1979). The collection also contains a significant number of photographs of the grounds of the Aldred estate in Glen Cove, Long Island, NY and of "Beacon Hill House", the Arthur Curtiss James estate in Newport, RI. Additionally, small collections of materials related to the California State Parks system and various other projects are included.

Access Restrictions: Unrestricted

Cross-references: Related material may be found throughout the various collections held at the Olmsted National Historic Site, particularly in the Photograph Album Collection and the European Photograph Collection.

SERIES

I. Aiglon Aerial Photograph Collection (approx. 2 l.f.; 2 document boxes, 1 flat box)

The Aiglon Aerial Photograph Collection comprises mainly aerial photographs of private estates, largely on Long Island, New York, and in Newport, Rhode Island and greater Boston.

Secondarily, some ground-level photographs of a few select private estates are included (notably the Aldred and Curtiss estates in Newport, RI). Additionally, the collection includes an informal series of California State Parks-related materials. The collection concludes with a folder of negatives and print contacts and handwritten notes from one of FLO Jr's trips to the Caribbean. Given the relatively small size of the collection as a whole, smaller subseries were not created.

The aerial photos number 100 unique images, come in four approximate sizes (3x5", 4x6", 8x10" and 11x14"), of two types of finishes (most of the smaller images are glossy prints while the larger items tend to be matte) and range from black & white to more sepia-toned. Numerous copies of images in various sizes exist in the collection, often including smaller prints of larger matte-finish photographs. Smaller prints often include small print numbers in the upper right corners of images. Most photographs are labelled on their versos with handwritten photograph identification numbers (in ink) and property owners (in pencil); occasionally, other notes are written on the photograph's verso discussing cropping or other editorial choices.

The non-Aiglon photo portions of this collection are made up of roughly three components: 1) ground-level shots of two estates; 2) photographs, negatives and postcards of California parks; and 3) contact prints and handwritten notes of images taken by FLO Jr. while visiting the Caribbean and South America, including St. Kitts, Tobago, Curaçao, Guatemala, Venezuela and numerous other locations.<sup>4</sup>

HISTORICAL NOTE

Olmsted Brothers Firm (1898-1961) and Olmsted Associates Firm (1961-1979)<sup>5</sup>

In 1883, Frederick Law Olmsted (1822-1903) purchased a home in Brookline, Massachusetts and called the property “Fairsted”. From 1883-1893, he worked to convert the building into a space that would accommodate both his family home and his professional offices. In 1884, only a year after settling at Fairsted, Olmsted Sr. made his nephew and step-son, John Charles Olmsted (1859-1920), a partner. Olmsted Sr. remained an active partner until 1893 during which time the firm operated under the names of F.L. and J.C. Olmsted, from 1884 until 1889, and F.L. Olmsted and Company, from 1889 until 1893. In 1893, upon his father’s retirement, Frederick Law Olmsted, Jr. (FLO, Jr., known less formally as “Rick”) became a partner along with Charles Eliot. The firm was renamed Olmsted, Olmsted and Eliot until Eliot’s death in 1897. Upon Eliot’s death, the firm was rechristened F. L. and J. C. Olmsted. A year later the name was changed yet again to Olmsted Brothers.

The Olmsted Brothers broadened and enhanced the legacy that their father began. As senior partner, John C. Olmsted (JCO) headed a practice that grew from 600 to over 3,500 commissions at the time of his death in 1920. He and his brother were founding members of ASLA, and JCO served as its first president, in which capacity he helped to develop the organization’s earliest membership standards and professional codes of practice. At its peak, in the 1920s and 1930s, the firm employed between 55 and 60 employees and was a highly departmentalized business that included architects, engineers, plants men and craftsmen. Over the years, to accommodate this growth, a rambling complex of offices was added to the family residence. JCO died in 1920 and in 1950, FLO, Jr. retired and left Massachusetts to return to California. By 1950, the firm employed less than a dozen individuals.

From 1950 until 1961, the Olmsted Brothers firm was managed by five partners who continued to consult old clients and new owners of properties once designed by the firm. But by 1961, all but two partners, Artemas Richardson and Joseph Hudak, had either retired or died. By the end of 1961, Richardson bought out Hudak’s share of the business and changed the name to Olmsted Associates, Inc. In 1980, the National Park Service bought the property and its contents and began restoring the buildings and grounds to their appearance in the early 1930s, the period of the firm’s greatest success. Richardson moved the renamed Olmsted Office to New Hampshire where it operated until Richardson’s retirement in 2001.

Aerial Photography

The use of aircraft to photograph geography from above dates to the mid-nineteenth century when balloons and rudimentary cameras were employed to capture images from the air. Prior to regular aircraft use, other means of taking photographs from the air included kites, pigeons and rockets.<sup>6</sup> During World War I and with the advent of modern flight technology, aerial photography became more prevalent for its strategic and scientific uses. In the post-war years, aerial photography returned to more commercial uses, and became more refined, utilizing multiple overlapping images and stabilized equipment. Industry advancements improved the process as demand for aerial photography increased in the fields of planning, archaeology, cartography, surveillance and even fine art.<sup>7</sup> An article in the May 5, 1927 American Architect specifically addresses the use of aerial photography for documenting landscape architecture<sup>8</sup> and a 1924 two-page spread in Landscape Architecture features two estates in Westbury, Long Island, New York and Greenwich, Connecticut.<sup>9</sup> Other aerial photography companies documented in the Olmsted firm's collections include Curtiss Flying Service, Inc., Hamiltons Aerial Photography, Underwood & Underwood (Aerial Dept.) and Fairchild Aerial Camera Corporation.<sup>10</sup>

Aiglon Aerial Photos

At the time of this writing, little is known about the company called Aiglon Aerial Photos. From this collection, it can be determined that there may have been two offices for Aiglon Aerial Photos: 2309 Broadway in New York City and 612 Pierce Building in Boston.<sup>11</sup> Verification of this information is found in the firm's client card files (which contains index cards for vendors as well as clients). On the index card for Aiglon Aerial Photos, the Broadway address is crossed out and apparently superseded by 318 W. 77th St.; the Boston address is clarified as "612 Pierce Bldg, Copley Square."<sup>12</sup> This card also includes a notation of "20-7 = O.B. 1924", indicating that Olmsted Brothers correspondence from 1924 exists within Job# 20-7; many non-job related subjects were covered by job number 20, and broken out into sub-numbers, such as 20-OR, Office Rules, 20-PC, Prospective Clients and, as here, 20-7, correspondence with photographers.<sup>13</sup>

<sup>6</sup> For a concise overview of the history of aerial photography, see the Professional Aerial Photographers Association's (PAPA) website (<http://www.papainternational.org/history.html>), "History of Aerial Photography" (retrieved June 29, 2009).

<sup>7</sup> A list of then-"recent" publications (1920-1924) appeared in Fairchild Aerial Survey's "Bulletin #4: The Stereoscope in Aerial Photography (Demonstrating the Practical Value of the Stereoscopic Properties of Aerial Photographs)", 1925. This publication also contains the existing intact red-and-blue cellophane handheld eyeglasses ("anaglyph filters") to view the included stereoscopic ("3-D") images of staff in the Fairchild Aerial Stereoscope laboratory, aerial images Manhattan and Chicago, as well as a forested and topographical aerial views. NAB/NAC Reference Collection, NAB 1244, Aerial Photography, 1923-1944, Box 4, Folder 6, Frederick Law Olmsted National Historic Site.

<sup>8</sup> "Landscape Architecture as Seen from the Air: A Series of Long Island Estates, John Russell Pope, Architect, Showing at a Glance the Landscape Development of the House and its Surroundings" with "critical captions" by Clarence Fowler, American Architect, May 5, 1927, p. 565-570 including one page of descriptive captions and five pages of images. It is worth noting that the article does not offer any credits for the aerial photography, but one image in that article - the W.K. Vanderbilt estate in Jericho, NY - is represented in this collection. The Olmsted firm knew of this article and listed it among a series of 3"x5" cards indexing the NAB/NAC reference collection under an "Aerial Photography" subject file.

<sup>11</sup> Evidence of these addresses are found on numerous photographs. Examples can be found in Box 1, Folder 2 ("10-28 J. Burden") for the New York address and Box 1, Folder 3 ("77-14 King, Mrs. Henry P.") for the Boston address.

<sup>12</sup> In his book "Built in Boston: City and Suburb, 1800-1950", Douglass Shand-Tucci comments on the distinction between the Pierce Building adjacent to the Boston Public Library at Copley Square (demolished in 1958, now the site of the Westin Hotel Copley Plaza) and the S.S. Pierce Building at Coolidge Corner, the Copley Square edifice's "suburban counterpart".

<sup>13</sup> These citations come from the Olmsted firm's Job Number Book, the handwritten codification of the extensive job numbering system of the firm. It is interesting to note that in the list of Job #20s, the line for #20-7 has been crossed out and a note in the margins, "now 2921", has been added. Job #2921 is listed in the Job Number Book as "Exhibitions & Publicity"; relevant materials in that folder include mostly handwritten notes on lots purchased from Aiglon Photos in the 1920s (cataloging the image numbers of photographs purchased), as well as an Aiglon Photos business card and fee schedule (Library of Congress, Olmsted Associates Records, Series B, Job# 2921, Microfilm Reel #140, frames 584-622).

The only other references found to Aiglon Aerial Photos during the processing of this collection were materials cataloged by the School of the Art Institute of Chicago's Historic Architecture and Landscape Image Collection. That collection contains over 11,000 items; a search of their digital collections database on "aiglon" yielded 31 images, 15 of which are represented among the 100 unique images in this collection. These Aiglon Aerial Photos images – some identical to the items in this collection and others clearly from the same studio – have appeared in other publications, both historical (numerous Architecture and Landscape Architecture periodicals) and contemporary<sup>14</sup>, although seldom – if ever – are the photographers credited as Aiglon Aerial Photos.

Other Photographers

It should be noted that, among the ground-level photographs of the J.E. Aldred and the Arthur Curtiss James estates, other photographers are represented that may interest researchers, including Samuel H. Gottscho, Frances Benjamin Johnston and Mattie E. Hewitt (together and separately),<sup>15</sup> and E.C. Doughty.

<sup>14</sup> A few examples of these are published by Acanthus Press, including American Gardens, 1890-1930 (2006), Houses of the Berkshires, 1870-1930 (2006) and Houses of the Hamptons, 1880-1930 (2007). Another is Monica Randall's The Mansions of Long Island's Gold Coast (Rizzoli, 2003). Absent citations in contemporary publications may be due to lack of information on historic publications of these images.

<sup>15</sup> Frances B. Johnston and Mattie E. Hewitt each worked for a time individually, then as partners, then again, after a "bitter conflict", as individuals once more. For more information, see <http://dlib.nyu.edu/easapp/transform?source=nyhs/hewittsmith.xml&style=nyhs/nyhs.xsl&part=body>, "Guide to the Mattie E. Hewitt and Richard A. Smith Photograph Collection, 1919-1961", New York Historical Society; the photographs contained in the collection described in this document do not seem to be represented in the collection held at the NYHS.

This list represents useful resources for research of both aerial photography and Long Island's "Gold Coast" mansions, as well as some sources for individual properties. Additionally, many individual documents and websites have proven helpful in the creation of this document, particularly when trying to establish the particular location of a property or the genealogy of the property's owners. The records used for and documenting the drafting of this document (including notes, photocopies of documentation and printed Internet resources) are held in the processing files of the Curatorial Division of the Olmsted National Historic Site.

APPENDIX A: DESCRIPTIVE DATA SHEETS OF PHOTOGRAPHS AND SUBJECTS

The following pages place the Aiglon Aerial images in numerical order, list the photograph's title and subject, its physical location within the collection, locate the subjects' geographic locations, and provide the names of the estates (if any) and Olmsted job number (if any). From this numerical ordering, it is easier to see that the enumeration of the images conform to a vaguely geographical pattern: first, New York/Long Island, then Connecticut (briefly, and intermingled with other New York subjects), Rhode Island, Maine (with one image), then, finally, Massachusetts. The numbering system applied to this collection can assumably be attributed to the Olmsted firm, as, at the time of this publication, no documentation has been found to the contrary.
